

Think Green

Peel Plastics has partnered with Braskem® to offer a replacement to the traditional polyethylene sealant layer with one whose feedstock comes from sugarcane. This sustainable solution meets the same high standards in appearance, quality and shelf life of your current mixed-material solutions, while reducing your environmental footprint.

Packaging using this material solution can be certified by the USDA as Bio-Based, when it contains over 25% Plant-Based Materials. Please contact us to learn more about this solution or to discuss the most appropriate pouch solution for your product.
